"Be Doers of the Word"

David A. Cox

*"But be doers of the word, and not hearers only, deceiving yourselves"

James has been described as the practical writer of the New Testament. Within the epistles of James, we see how he shows the difference between being hearers and "doers of the word." Indeed, we need to hear the word, but then be doers of the word and not hearers only. What does a doer of the word look like? James gives four characteristics in James 1:25-27 that describe the doer.

He Practices The Things Taught In The Word. In verse 25, James writes, "he who looks into the perfect law of liberty and continues in...a doer of the work, this one will be blessed in what he does." The doers will read, meditate, and put into practice the things taught in the law of God. He will not be in the class of people that Jesus mentions in Matthew 25:41-45 that fail to practice the very things that the law taught them to do.

He Maintains A Control Over His Life. In verse 26, James says, "If anyone among you thinks he is religious, and does not bridle his tongue but deceives his own heart, this one's religion is useless." James tells us that the religious man that is doing the will of God will have control of his life, especially he mentions the tongue. He will keep his tongue from spewing forth vulgarities of all kinds. He will restrain his tongue from gossip, speaking evil, etc. To maintain one's speech and actions will require that the body and mind of the doer will be controlled. The activities of the doer will be controlled by the scriptures and the things taught in them. He will be focused on doing things the way God would be pleased.

He Loves God and Loves People. In verse 27, it is quite clear from what James says that the doers will be focused on others and what he can do for them. Notice what James says, "Pure religion and undefiled religion before God and the Father is this: to visit orphans and widows in their trouble." The word "visit" carries primarily the meaning of "to inspect, to look upon, care for." "To visit" would imply action, not just a glancing thought, but to roll up your sleeves and do something for those who cannot do for themselves. The attitude of such people is seen in Matthew 25:34-40. Let's remember that being a doer of the word will be a lover of God and people.

He Practices Holiness/Righteousness. At the end of verse 27, James concludes about the doer "to keep himself unspotted from the world." We must not overlook the importance of maintaining purity and godliness in our lives. Doers will certainly not be people that conduct themselves in an ungodly way. To the doer that is as the text has described would have to "live soberly, righteously and godly" (Titus 2:12).

Anyone that does not understand the necessity of being a doer of the word is a deceiver of himself. May we well remember the great blessings we can enjoy because of the great sacrifice of Jesus Christ and live in a way that will honor His great name.

Communication is the Key

Marty R. Adams

I'm not certain, but I suspect that if you ask any member of the church what discourages them the most, a common answer given would be an inactive member.

By inactive church member I don't mean only those who are habitually absent, but also the inactive member who merely warms a seat but does little to participate in the worship service to our God. But it's not only a great discouragement to all concerned members of the congregation, it is also a good reason for concern. An inactive church member is one of the sheep that has gone astray and requires the shepherd to leave the 99 to go after the one.

As I contemplated this thought here is what I would say to someone that is not active in the church.

Dear Friend,

I wanted to write you a letter of encouragement. I've noticed lately that you haven't been as present in the worship services and being with the saints at Market Street as you can be or once were. I understand that there are many things in life that detract or hinder us from being as active as we should be, and maybe we just need a bit of a nudge in the right direction. In fact, it's a temptation that the Bible encourages us against: "Let us hold fast the confession of our hope without wavering, for he who promised is faithful. And let us consider how to stir up one another to love and good works, not neglecting to meet together, as is the habit of some, but encouraging one another, and all the more as you see the Day drawing near" (Hebrews 10:23-25). So with that in mind allow me to encourage you to be more active in our worship service.

First, I want to encourage you because our God is worthy. When we meet week-by-week to worship God we don't do it because it's tradition or mere formality. Rather, we do it because God is worthy to be worshiped: "Worthy is the Lamb who was slain, to receive power and wealth and wisdom and might and honor and glory and blessing!" (Revelation 5:12). When we come together in worship—as God wants us to do—we are saying, "You are worthy!" But when you don't come to worship because you don't feel like it, or you're too busy, or you'd rather do something else, you are telling God, "You're not worthy." God is worthy of being worshiped, loved and served by you.

Second, I want to encourage you because the church is the body. Paul wrote: "For as in one body we have many members, and the members do not all have the same function, so we, though many, are one body in Christ, and individually members of one another" (Romans 12:4-5). By the Holy Spirit we're not only united to Jesus but to one another. When you're not participating in the worship service with the church we feel your absence. We value you—your presence, service, gifts and encouragement you bring. To put it this way, when you're not with us we're not complete, but we're a body that is missing a part.

Third, I want to encourage you because of your spiritual growth. God doesn't intend Christians to grow all by themselves. Rather, we are to grow together. Again, Paul wrote that we have the ministry of the church so that "we all attain to the unity of the faith and of the knowledge of the Son of God, to mature manhood, to the measure of the stature of the fullness of Christ" (Ephesians 4:13). I'm afraid to say it, but it's a biblical assumption that your inactivity means you're not growing spiritually. You're not growing in a love for God or for your neighbor; you're not growing in your knowledge and understanding of the things of God. This isn't a good place to be and we don't want you to be there.

Fourth, I want to encourage you because of the wiles of Satan. Peter wrote: "Your adversary the devil prowls around like a roaring lion, seeking someone to devour" (1 Peter 5:8). I don't know a lot about the habits of lions, but I do know that they prey on those who are detached from the herd. I worry that in being inactive and not participating you've separated yourself from the herd and have become easy prey for Satan—his lies, flaming darts and temptations. There's a reason that just before this Peter wrote "Be alert." We don't want you to be resisting the devil all on your own, that's why God has given you to us and us to you.

Fifth, I want to encourage you because of reciprocal edification. Even Paul who was an Apostle wanted and needed to be with the church. To the congregation in Rome he wrote: "For I long to see you, that I may impart to you some spiritual gift to strengthen you—that is, that we may be mutually encouraged by each other's faith, both yours and mine" (Romans 1:11-12). You're a member of this church and you're also a friend and family member in Jesus. We want to have opportunities to edify you and also to be edified by you.

Sixth, I want to encourage you because of joy. In writing to a church, John said: "Though I have much to write to you, I would rather not use paper and ink. Instead I hope to come to you and talk face to face, so that our joy may be complete" (2 John 1:12). Everyone wants to be happy, glad and joyful. The Bible reminds us that we find joy in the face to face presence of one another. That is to say, you contribute to our joy when you are present and we contribute to yours.

Finally, let me encourage you because of the promises you made. When you became a member of the church (the body of the believers), you promised to devote your life to Christ. Your devotion, service, influence, encouragement and help are needed.
